About the Featured Speaker
Tameka Hatcher

Tameka Monique Hatcher is the Educational Outreach Coordinator with the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission, where she began her career in civil rights as an employment discrimination investigator. An experienced facilitator, Tameka developed ground-breaking training on "Diversity, Harassment and Respect for Police Departments" that has been added to the Commonwealth training catalogue as a model. A graduate of Lincoln University with degrees in Political Science and French, she has been a research analyst for the Pennsylvania House of Representatives. A former social worker specializing in children and youth advocacy, she has worked for Keystone Early Intervention Programs in behavior support therapy, supervising family reunification. A past board member of The Program for Female Offenders, Inc., she holds an MBA in Management from Eastern University. She is a volunteer mentor and the recipient of the Lisa Waller Memorial Service Award from the NAACP and the Education & Community Service Award from PHRC.
